Columbus Division of Police Lieutenant Tim Sansbury has proudly served the citizens of Columbus for 29 years. He began his career with the Columbus Division of Police in November, 1989, at the age of 22.

Lieutenant Sansbury first served the division in the crime lab where he worked as a Forensic Scientist. While assigned to the crime lab, Mr. Sansbury established the division's Forensic DNA Analysis Section. In 1991, while assisting in a murder investigation, Mr. Sansbury's DNA analysis resulted in the division's first Forensic DNA match, which positively identified the suspect.

Months later, the Franklin County Court of Common Pleas declared Mr. Sansbury an expert witness in Forensic DNA analysis and determined the division's DNA analysis and testing methods to be scientifically sound. This paved the way for Mr. Sansbury's expert testimony in the case. After hearing the evidence, the jury convicted the suspect establishing the division's first conviction supported by DNA evidence.

Mr. Sansbury would ultimately testify as a Forensic Sciences expert in numerous individual disciplines throughout the Forensic Sciences and in scores of criminal cases. He continued to serve as a Forensic Scientist until departing for the police training academy in 1994.

In December 1994, Mr. Sansbury entered the Columbus Division of Police Training Academy as a Police Recruit. In June 1995, he graduated from the academy and began serving as a police officer. Officer Sansbury served the city's South Linden area on third shift patrol for approximately ten years.

In 2004, the division promoted Officer Sansbury to Sergeant. Following his promotion, Sergeant Sansbury remained on third shift patrol serving the division's Parsons Avenue area. Sergeant Sansbury also had the privilege of serving as a hostage negotiator on the division's Hostage Negotiation Team. Sergeant Sansbury continued to serve this area until his promotion to Lieutenant in 2008.

In 2008, the division promoted Sergeant Sansbury to Lieutenant and assigned him to oversee the division's Technical Services Section. As the Technical Services Section Lieutenant, he led the division's computer and fleet related initiatives. Lt. Sansbury continued to serve in this capacity until 2011.

In 2011, Lieutenant Sansbury accepted an assignment in the Training Bureau as the Advanced Training Section Lieutenant. In that assignment he led all efforts to train incumbent sworn and civilian personnel. In 2013, Lieutenant Sansbury, transferred to the Basic Training Section to oversee Recruit and Field Training. He remains in that position today.

How to Become a Peace Officer in Ohio

To become a peace officer in Ohio, one must complete a Peace Officer Basic Training Academy that is approved by the Ohio Peace Officer Training Commission (OPOTC).

A list of the peace officer basic training academies in Ohio, arranged by county, can be found at www.OhioAttorneyGeneral.gov/PeaceOfficerBasicTrainingSchools

Closed and open enrollment academies

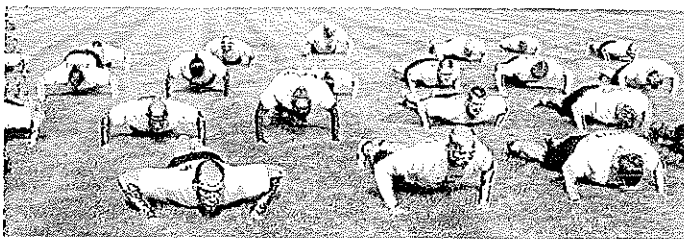

Some basic academies are "closed," requiring recruits to be appointed by a department. Larger communities usually train with this model. Potential students would need to talk to agencies to find out more about their application process. Some of these academies charge no fees, and some departments even pay the cadets' salaries while they are going through the academy.

Other academies are "open enrollment" academies, where the students are not appointed but can still take the academy prior to having a job. These academies charge fees that they set. Please note the GI Bill can be used for peace officer basic academies. Also, if the academy is run by a college or university, there may be grants, scholarships, or other financial aid opportunities. Students would need to talk to the specific academy and its financial aid department about the processes and details.

Academy requirements

Students must pass a criminal background check, a physical fitness test, and a drug screen before entering the academy. Additional physical fitness requirements, skill assessments, and a written examination must be passed to become certified. The curriculum requires a minimum of 728 hours of training. Local academies may add hours to that minimum. Some academies run on a weekday schedule, some are evening and/or weekend academies, and some are college-based and on a semester calendar.

Relocation considerations

An officer moving from another state, or one with military police experience, might be eligible to receive credit for prior training that is equivalent to what is offered in Ohio's basic training course. Here are the steps to participate in the prior equivalent program:

1. Be appointed by an Ohio agency (full-time appointment status is not required).
2. Have the agency submit a Request for Prior Equivalent Training Analysis.
3. Wait for the commission staff to review the documentation and determine the amount of credit to be awarded.
4. Enroll in a basic training school and complete the required training.
5. Pass the entire state certification exam.

The Request for Prior Equivalent Training Analysis form and additional information can be found at <https://www.OhioAttorneyGeneral.gov/SF410bas>

2015 – 2018 Scenario Training: Defensive Tactics and Ordnance

2015

Ordnance: Three scenarios run.

Scenario I: Involved a call of a gunman at a mall/shopping center. Officer would encounter several people running from the venue directly at the officer, all would be good guy targets, but the officer had to properly assess the targets for threat/response.

Targets moved past the officer who would have to sidestep through them, simulating fleeing people. As the officer cleared the non-threat targets, a moving bad guy target would face presenting a deadly threat.

The deadly threat target would move laterally, and a uniformed officer target would pop up in between the responding officer and the moving threat target. (Decision involving bad guy target and what surrounded it) We used ammunition that had intermittent ignition problems that could present stoppages as a further issue.

Scenario II: Officer is in a convenience store to get a cup of coffee when an armed robbery occurs forcing the officer to assess the threat and response as innocent persons were around the threat target.

Scenario III: Involved a call to a school involving an in-progress shooting. Upon arrival, the officer would hear the gunshots coming from a classroom and would have to respond to it. As they quick peeked into the room, they saw bodies and "an armed bad guy student holding a hostage child" target. Required a deadly force response as it was ongoing right in their presence, backing out making it a barricade call out, was not an option. Officer could enter the room to engage or engage from the doorway as they deemed appropriate.

A sound system was used with this year's scenarios to broadcast crowd noise, screaming people, massive gunshots, etc.

DTU: Three scenarios run.

Scenario I: Student involved with a wanted felon fleeing. Officer's orders to stop are ignored. TASER deployment may be selected as an appropriate force option. Demonstrates difficulty is running and accurately deploying TASER. Other options explored such as airing suspect information while keeping in sight in foot pursuit while using good officer safety tactics.

Scenario II: Officer presented with an emotionally disturbed subject who presents varying threats causing the officer to assess the threat and deploy appropriate de-escalation/force option. Officer transitions with threat ranging from verbal de-escalation to deadly force.

Scenario III: Officer responding to a call for service when they are ambushed by an armed suspect. Officer must assess the situation and take appropriate action, i.e., take cover and engage, charge target with deadly force.

Ordinance: No decision course run due to range lighting renovations.

DTU: 9 scenarios run during two sessions, spring and fall.

Scenario I: Officers flagged down by individual describing a violent situation involving daughter's boyfriend smashing house up with a baseball bat. Officers must evaluate the situation, use contact/cover principles, engage suspect verbally attempting to de-escalate.

Scenario II: Four officer run with long guns responding to call of an individual waving a gun around and placing it in their waistband. Officers must set a meeting location, deploy at scene avoiding crossfire situation. Assess the threat posed by the suspect who is not displaying a firearm. Officers must force surrender situation and tactically secure/disarm suspect without using force greater than verbal commands.

Scenario III: Officers responding to an officer in trouble call and are presented with an unarmed suspect on the ground refusing to comply with the on-scene officers' orders to place their hands behind their back. Officers must use trained techniques, i.e., pressure points, controlled strikes to specific targets, close-quarter probe deployment, and use of hobble strap after handcuffing.

Scenario IV: Officers dispatched to call of a person looking into parked cars. Officers respond to the scene and observe the suspect looking into cars. The suspect must be tactically approached and detained, i.e., officers must recognize they may perform a Terry stop. The suspect is found to have an active warrant. Officers must use contact/cover principles, control suspect for handcuffing, and used a trained handcuffing technique.

Scenario V: Officer presented with MILO scenarios which vary, requiring the officer to assess the situation/threat and respond appropriately.

Scenario VI: MILO scenario for a single officer responding to an active shooter in a school. Officer must enter school and use audio/visual clues to locate threat and engage. Officer must maintain situational awareness throughout scenario to determine threat from non-threat.

Scenario VII: MILO scenario of the officer responding on a call of a neighbor dispute, encountering an aggressive dog when arriving on scene. The dog is on the porch with the caller. The officer is expected to stop movement and order the caller to secure the dog inside the residence. Any action other than that results in the dog attacking and student failure.

Scenario VIII: Two officers investigating a crime scene when a hidden suspect emerges and fires a weapon at the officers. Officers must assess the situation and take appropriate action which complies with Division training and policy.

Scenario IX: Two officers responding to a person in crisis threatening suicide with a knife. Officers must attempt de-escalation techniques. Techniques fail. Officers must recognize the situation allows for the use of TASER to incapacitate the individual and safely secure them. Officers must use trained techniques to successfully complete the scenario.

Ordinance: Three scenarios run.

Scenario I: Involved an individual armed with a rifle who was involved in a shooting. The officer could elect to move to cover if they wished, or could attack if they decided to. Officer would eventually advance towards the downed suspect to further investigate and render aid if applicable. As the officer assessed the situation, the officer was attacked by a fleeing bad guy with good guys spaced around him.

(Target and what surrounds it along with area awareness)

Scenario II: Officer would encounter a drunken target at a convenience store and would interact with him when suddenly an armed robbery target would present needing an assessment and appropriate force response. (Rapidly evolving situation.)

Scenario III: The officer is dispatched to take a report. As the officer pulled up to the location and exits the cruiser, a dog loose in the area runs towards them. The officer had options of reacting directly to the dog or returning to the cruiser. The officer could decide to do nothing or could decide to engage the dog with deadly force response. During this decision time, we had a simulated "owner" target present. The "owner" ran towards the officer and the dog in an attempt to control the dog. This would also cause the officer to make a decision, as an innocent human being was now downrange from the dog if the officer decided to deploy deadly force. (Awareness of your target and what is behind it)

DTU: Four scenarios run for uniformed and plainclothes.

Scenario I: Multiple officers engage active aggressor in an open area, officers witness suspect shooting a victim. The armed suspect must be approached in a tactically advantageous manner using trained techniques. If officers fail to engage immediately, suspect flees into the residence and hides, causing officers to enter residence under 4th Amendment exception and force surrender situation using verbal commands and threat of deadly force.

Scenario II & III: Officers presented with two random MILO scenarios designed to allow officers to practice threat assessment and recognize the appropriate use of de-escalation techniques.

Scenario IV: Officers presented with an individual with an obvious mental impairment. Officers must assess potential threat posed by individual based on the presence of weapons. Officers must assess the environmental situation to allow for contact/cover, use of de-escalation while maintaining the availability of other force options.

Ordinance: Two scenarios run.

Scenario I: Officer seated in a restaurant when innocent target people would run at the officer and then suddenly an armed suspect target would present. Officer could move about, stay seated, whatever they wanted. The good guy targets would at times interfere in the vision line of the officer. Verbal interaction would be okay as well as deadly force on the bad guy. Weapon stoppages would be encountered and would figure into the timing of the target presentation. Reloads would also be needed at the officer's discretion.

Scenario II: Officer with hands occupied, responding in a low-light situation involving multiple visual distractions. A deadly threat target presents and the officer must assess the situation and respond. Cover was offered if the officer wanted to use it. Stoppages would be encountered; other bad guy attackers would present and charge the officer. The timing of target action would be relative to what the officer was doing. Also had a good guy target mixed in with this that required no deadly force but possibly verbal interaction. Officers could use their flashlights if they wished.

DTU: Five scenarios run.

Scenario I: Three officers responding on an active shooter call. Officers must use tactics learned from Joint Lifesaving training to approach building/shooter and conduct a search. Once the suspect is located, the use of trained techniques allows for officers to force a surrender situation and safe capture of the suspect.

Scenario II: Officer, with TASER in-hand, must pursue a fleeing suspect and attempt to successfully deploy TASER in probe mode. Officers will debrief on the difficulty of successfully deploying the TASER while moving and consider other options to successfully apprehend the suspect.

Scenario III: Officer is ambushed while conducting a traffic stop. Scenario trains officer to maintain environmental awareness, use of radio and BWC, tactical movement, and suspect engagement while assessing backdrop.

Scenario IV: Officer is presented with a person experiencing an obvious mental crisis. Officer must assess the situation and environment and recognize the appropriateness of de-escalation techniques while using the physical environment to their advantage.

Scenario V: Officers presented with MILO scenarios that require the officer to accurately assess the threat/situation and respond according to division training and policy. Scenarios will stress de-escalation techniques and slowing the event down.

THE CITY OF COLUMBUS
ANDREW J. GINTHER, MAYOR

DIVISION OF POLICE

Introduction

The Columbus Police Communications Bureau provides a vital link between the needs of the community and the resources within the Division of Police. Its mission is to evaluate incoming calls for service, determine the nature of the request, and then dispatch the appropriate resources necessary to safely and efficiently provide the service required.

When do I call 911?

Call 911 if your family member/patient is:

- Actively harming him/herself or another person
- Threatening to harm him/herself or another person
- Armed with a weapon
- Violently destroying property
- Having a medical emergency
- Missing

Call the non-emergency phone number, (614) 645-4545, if you require a police response, but one of the above situations is not currently taking place.

Has the situation changed?

If you have placed a call to the non-emergency phone number, and your family member/patient's behavior has changed to meet the criteria of a 911 call, please call 911 and provide the updated information. The call-taker will add the additional information to your call for service.

"911, What is your Emergency?"

Your call will be answered by a trained professional call-taker who follows very specific procedures when gathering information to ensure your call is handled appropriately. Allowing the call-taker to control the call will ensure the best response.

The following basic information is needed to dispatch police assistance. Please be prepared to provide this information at the very beginning of the call:

Location First

- Address or intersection
- Room number or apartment number
- Type of location (a residence, group home, or medical facility)

Condition of Person Needing Assistance

- Does the person have a mental illness?
- Is the person using illicit drugs?
- Is the person intoxicated?

This information helps the call-taker properly categorize the call, determine the appropriate service(s), and ensure the correct number of officers are dispatched to the location.

Please be prepared to provide the following additional information about your family member/patient in need of assistance:

History with Weapons

Responding officers need to be aware of any weapons your family member/patient may currently have or have access to, including any replica or toy weapons.

Prior Contact with Police

It is helpful if responding officers are aware of any prior positive or negative contact with police.

"Triggers"

Knowledge of your family member/patient's positive and negative triggers can help responding officers avoid any negative situations and attempt to engage them in a positive way.

Medication Status

It can help responding officers to know if your family member or patient is prescribed medication, but not currently taking it. Provide how long he or she has not been taking the medication.

Request a CIT Officer to Respond

Crisis Intervention Team (CIT) officers are specifically trained to handle mental health situations. Please keep in mind that CIT officers are not always available to be dispatched.

Description

When you call, the call-taker will ask for a description that typically includes the following details:

Person(s)

- Sex
- Race
- Height and weight
- Hair and eye color

Clothing

The following specific order is used for clothing descriptions:

- Head to toe
- Inside-out

For example, "a white t-shirt with a black coat, blue jeans, and white shoes."

Vehicles

The acronym "CYMBALS" is used for vehicle descriptions and stands for:

- Color
- Year
- Make
- Body style
- Anything else (for example, damage, stickers, or odd paint)
- License plate
- State

Call Backs

When you call the police and request officers to respond, a call for service is entered into the computer. If a prolonged delay in the response occurs, you will receive a telephone call from a dispatcher. The dispatcher will advise you that your call is still pending and an officer will be sent as soon as one is available. It is not necessary to continue to call the police for updated or estimated times of arrivals. Due to the nature of police work, it is impossible for a dispatcher to give you a specific time of arrival.
