

Instructions for Form IR-21J

Joint Economic Development District (JEDD) Declaration of Estimated Income Tax

Use to prepare returns for tax year 2021

Do I Need to File?

You must file Form IR-21J, Declaration of Estimated Tax if:

- You expect to owe more than $200 in JEDD tax in 2021,
- You are a nonresident who has taxable income in any of the three JEDDs, or
- You had taxable income in one or more JEDD in 2020 but will not have taxable income in any JEDD in 2021. Complete Form IR-21J showing zero in Column G.

Line Instructions

Column B: Estimate 2021 income from wages, salaries, commissions, etc.

Column C: Estimate 2021 income from net profits, rental property, and other income.

NOTE

The net loss from an unincorporated business cannot be used to offset wages, salaries, commissions or other compensation. The amount in Column C cannot be less than zero.

Column D: Add Column B and Column C.

Column E: Multiply the figure in Column D by the applicable tax rate.

Column F: Enter estimated 2021 amounts of:

- a. JEDD tax shown as withheld on the W-2(s);
- b. Tax correctly paid to another city on income earned in that city (attach a copy of the return filed with that city). This amount is limited to:
 - i. that city's tax rate multiplied by that job's city taxable income; or
 - ii. the applicable JEDD tax rate multiplied by that job's taxable income.

- c. JEDD tax paid on your behalf by a partnership.

Column G: Subtract Column F from Column E.

Divide the figure in Form IR-21J, Box 1 by 4 to determine quarterly installment payment amounts. This amount, minus any credits from overpayment of previous year's return, must be paid when you file Form IR-21J (Line 5).

Your 2021 Form IR-21J is due on April 15, along with your estimated payment for the first quarter. No extensions of time to file or pay will be granted.

Amending Form IR-21J

You may file an amended Form IR-21J to increase or decrease the original declaration of estimated tax. To file an amended declaration using Form IR-21J, mark the box at the top right portion of the form designated as "AMENDED".

Making Quarterly Estimated Payments

- September 15, 2021
- January 15, 2022

Each estimated tax payment must include a payment of at least 25% of the total estimated tax shown on Form IR-21J or include a credit carryforward.

All 2021 quarterly estimated payments must total at least 90% of the total tax liability shown on your 2021 tax return or at least 100% of the total tax liability shown on your 2020 tax return.
