Managing Criminal Investigations

Criminal Investigations are one of the primary functions of a police agency and must be properly managed to ensure efficient and effective investigations. Many police agencies organize their criminal investigations function based on the “way we have always done it.” Failure of police chiefs and command officers to properly manage this critical function can lead to inefficient operations and a significant waste of resources.

Overview:

This 12 Hour Program is designed for Police Chiefs and Criminal Investigation Supervisors. It is NOT a class for investigators but is a class on managing the Criminal Investigations function within your department. The class is designed to answer questions of staffing, specialization, best organizational arrangement, and how to improve the overall investigations process. The class is highly interactive and participation is highly encouraged.

Instructor:

Marlin R Price, Chief of Police (ret.)
Administrative Services Manager, Plano Police Department

Organizational Leadership Courage and Character

It is necessary that police officers and supervisors remind themselves of the nobility of policing and the high ethical standards required to do the job well in the modern world. Individuals must be willing to craft the culture and climate of their organizations to value the high ideals of nobility, honesty, integrity, dignity, and respect as a backdrop for all operations. This course is written to combine these two principles and energize police officers and supervisors in their efforts to model courage and character.

Overview:

This is a 16 hour course which is presented in two days. The course will provide instruction that is both philosophical and practical, with discussions, question and answer sessions, readings, video instruction and case studies as presentation methods. Detailed lesson information is included in the presentation outline. The course is designed for all officers with particular focus on supervisors and senior officers who may become supervisors.

Instructor:

Michael R. (Mike) Gentry, Chief of Police (ret.), Director of Training, Texas Police Chiefs Association
