

David Fluellen

Founder & CEO of Urban Family Development
Sector: Non-Profit

David Fluellen is the Founder & CEO of Urban Family Development Center. Using more than 16 years of experience working in non-profit throughout the state of Ohio David oversees all daily operations to make certain that Urban FDC can better assess the needs of the community. Urban Family Development Center is committed to providing tools and strategies to families in urban communities to aid in empowering them to overcome poverty. Urban Family Development center works to make certain every family has access to the resources required to overcome poverty. We believe that “Family is Everything” we believe that community stabilization must start with stabilizing individual families. We do this through interrelated programs. In 2015 Mr. Fluellen developed Dads2B in partnership with The Ohio Commission on Fatherhood and Ohio State Wexner Medical Center (Moms2B). Offered in Franklin and Montgomery County, Dads2B serves fathers and support people in high-risk communities. Dads2B offers prenatal sessions to fathers educating them on maternal, positive family structure, and infant health. David enjoys taking nature walks and watching Ohio State Football. He is the father of five children, three girls and two boys.
